May 13, 2015

Rambol Environ Poland is looking for students interested in an internship (third edition)

Rambol Environ Poland, a branch office of the international environmental and health &safety consultancy, is looking for students (all years) interested in an internship. The purpose is to provide outstanding students the opportunity to acquire first-hand experience in an international EHS consultancy.

Description

The internship will last between 3 and 12 months and will include consecutive training stages comprising:

- Office support role: basic administrative office tasks
- Project support role: preparation of project documents under supervision
- Research: independent desktop research and preparation of reports
- If opportunity arises: participation in audits and field investigations

Requirements and expectations

- Very good command (oral and written) of both Polish and English is a must
- Willingness to spend approximately 20h/week (on the average) at work in addition to studies and ability to negotiate between the academic and work requirements without compromising either of them
- Willingness to learn, work and generally participate in the company operations

Environ offers

- Experience, knowledge and know-how valuable for future career
- Real-life environmental and H&S problems and challenges
- Modest salary (temporary contract)

Successful interns may be offered temporary or permanent employment in case of new job openings within the company.

Application

Please send your CV/cover letter to tgaloch@environcorp.com, placing in the title/subject area the word “internship” as well as your name. The chosen applicants will be invited for an interview in June or early July. The internship is planned to begin in July-August.

Tomasz Galoch,

Rambol Environ Poland, Deputy Director